

Walking with a Purpose Success Story: Adams County

A walkability assessment was completed in Corning on May 19, 2010. Students, parents, and other adults performed the audit on Main Street. Participants found the size of the sidewalks to be satisfactory; however, the conditions of the sidewalks were sub-par. Many walkways were cracked and uneven, making it unsafe to walk. The results of the assessment will be shared with the mayor, and funding will be sought to replace the damaged sidewalks.
